Andrew Davison Nominated
by Cons. in Bow River

A. DAVISON

Mayor Andrew Davison of Calgary, was the unanimous choice of 500 delegates to the convention held at Acre on Wednesday last to contest the Bow River Riding in the interests of the Conservative Party. Mr. Davison needs no introduction to the people of Crossfield.

In due course he will address meetings throughout this district.

ABERHART SAYS FALSE BALLOTS PRINTED

Charge that opponents in the Cochrane and area riding had broken the Alberta Elections Act by printing false ballots to confuse Social Credit supporters was made Tuesday by William Aberhart, Social Credit leader, in a radio broadcast.

The action was typical of the "low down, gangster" tricks resorted to by Social Credit opponents, Mr. Aberhart declared. He asked the assistance of his supporters in the two districts to help secure evidence which would lead to conviction of those printing the ballots.

Mr. Aberhart appealed to voters at the poll, as official ones supplied by the Dominion or Provincial Governments as the case may be, they bear serial numbers and are stamped by the returning officer, as well as initialled by him.

It is obvious to all why this is done, simply to preclude any ballots other than those intended for the purpose being used.

In view of the foregoing how can anyone be confused.

High - Bales

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the home of Rev. F. Vincent of Didsbury, on Monday, August 19, when Mr. William Bales of Carstairs was united in marriage to Miss Cora High of Crossfield. The Rev. F. Vincent officiated.

The bride looked charming in a dress of white celanese with veil to match and carrying a lovely bouquet of flowers. The bride was attended by her younger sister Miss Clara High who was attired in pink celanese and carrying a bouquet of flowers. Mr. Alfred High acted as groomsman.

After the ceremony the bride and groom left for Red Deer where a short honeymoon will be spent, upon their return they will reside in the Crossfield district where the groom is a prosperous farmer.

Record Vote Predicted

There is every indication that the heaviest provincial vote ever cast in Alberta will be polled today. Interest in the election is keen. In the Cochrane constituency the day is ideal and the roads are good. In Crossfield, all is activity with cars buzzing in and out of town loaded with voters. Everything points to a record vote with no excuses this time.

The Object Of An Election

By the time this article appears in print the very interesting Provincial election campaign which has been in progress in Alberta will be concluded and the electors of that province will have rendered their judgment as between the several parties and their respective policies. This Alberta campaign has been unusually interesting, not only on account of the number and variety of political groups which have placed candidates in the field, but because a plan or system of finance and economy entirely new to Canada, namely Social Credit, has been urged for adoption and a trial. As a result the attention of all Canada, and even in other countries, was focused on Alberta.

By this time, too, Canadians will be in the throes of a Dominion general election which also presents a situation that is new in the political history of Canada. The present contest will not be confined to the two traditional parties, Liberal and Conservative, because since the election of five years ago another two political parties have come into being and are contending for the favor of the voters in support of policies and programmes which they believe are necessary to solve the problems which have arisen in this rapidly changing world.

So, in several constituencies, instead of making a clear-cut decision as between two aspirant candidates for Parliamentary honours, and between two distinct lines of policy as represented by Conservatives and Liberals, the voters will have to make up their minds as between three, four, and possibly even a larger number of candidates presenting differing programmes.

The situation is one that undoubtedly throws a greater responsibility upon the individual voter for at least one reason, if not for others. The object of Parliamentary elections under the British system of democratic responsible government is two-fold, and it is vitally important that both be kept in mind, and due weight and consideration given to them by the voter as he or she proceeds to mark a ballot.

In the first place, the voter is making choice of a personal representative in the House of Commons, the person whom he or she considers best qualified to present his or her views, best qualified to represent that particular constituency, best qualified to represent the views and interests of the Province of which such constituency forms a part, and best qualified to deal with those larger questions of national, even world, policy in the statesmanlike handling of which the welfare of all Provinces, constituencies and individuals is involved.

But the selection of such individual representative is not all that is decided by a voter when marking a ballot. There is another, possibly an even greater issue at stake. The basic object of an election is to set up the governing body of the nation; in other words, to create a Government to the executive members of which is entrusted the heavy responsibility of formulating policies and administering the laws and the national business of the Dominion. It is not the voter's duty or consulting body that is being chosen, but the Government of the country.

The biggest business enterprise in Canada is Canada itself. If that business is mismanaged, if it is conducted along wrong lines of policy, than each and every other business in Canada, and every individual in Canada, stands to suffer loss. Stated another way, individual voters are the shareholders in the largest and most important of all business enterprises—Canada itself. In a general election they are meeting as shareholders to choose a board of directors—the House of Commons. From the 245 members thus chosen, an executive or board of management is selected, namely, the cabinet of ministers chosen by the president of the whole corporation, the Prime Minister, and responsible to him and to the House of Commons.

If in the exercise of their individual rights the voters choose various groups of members having opposing views as to how the business of the country should be conducted, and the nature of the policies that should be followed, and as a result no one group commands a majority over all other groups, and consequently no group is in a position to undertake the responsibility of attempting to govern the country, then government becomes practically impossible, a deadlock ensues, the business of the country is neglected or bevelled because no definite course of action can be decided upon and a straight course steered. The proper conduct of government and national business is impossible and the whole country and every interest suffers.

Consequently, it is necessary for the individual voter in exercising the best judgment possible to make a selection of a personal representative in the cause of the country to give consideration not only to the qualifications of such possible representative, but also to the personnel, leadership and policies of the group to which he belongs and supports. He must decide, too, whether such group has within itself the necessary numbers, power and ability to establish a strong Government and give to Canada that sound and efficient administration which the welfare of all citizens demands shall be given.

Admittedly, Canada is a hard country to govern. With a comparatively small population, scattered thinly across half a continent, constituted of people of many racial origins, different languages, and various beliefs, several Provinces mainly rural in occupation, but the two central and by far the most populous Provinces highly industrialized, the problem of popular democratic government is no easy one to solve. Yet it must be solved if all are not to suffer.

Such is the situation and some of the more vital considerations which the voters of Canada must seriously weigh during the next few weeks, and finally must register their judgment upon at the ballot boxes.

Idea Came From India

The voice of mining wine or water, lemon juice, sugar, spice and water was brought to England from India and it seems to be named from the Hindoo word "punch" meaning five, referring to the usual number of ingredients.

Children grow more rapidly during April, May and June than any other period of the year, according to results of a survey conducted in Europe.

A Tragic Souvenir

A large gold medal which was specially struck by the City of Paris for presentation to King Alexander in commemoration of the visit which he was to have paid to the French capital, is to be given as a tragic souvenir to his widow, Queen Marie of Yugoslavia.

Approximately 11,000,000 words are spoken annually by the average man. Speaking of women, you will have to add more zeros.

A Fast Growing Business

Shark Catching Is Money Maker According To Captain

Up from the Philippines to New York came Capt. Jean M. Ellerich with a message for housewives in search of a new table delicacy and for ambitious young men seeking a job in the future.

"Shark: meat," said the captain, "is a dish from heaven." The shark catching business, he added, "is a fast growing enterprise and one young man might well consider for their life's work."

The captain, who has sharked all around the globe, apparently never heard of steaks from Texas rattlesnakes, but he would have you understand shark meat has become a very popular dish. Why they're serving meat de so from sharks to the most discriminating diners, although sometimes under a name.

By virtue of the increasing popularity, the business has grown by leaps and bounds, he said, and even though the operation is still on a small scale with the red-link manufacturers and the few wag golf courses.

Like troubles, there apparently is no end to the sharks. Although a million are taken every year, these are just as many to-day; in fact 250 varieties.

Capt. Ellerich is here to learn the different varieties from aquarium officials and survey market possibilities.

In the Philippines he first learned how thoughtless were the natives in throwing away all of the shark, except the fins, which they used for soup.

To-day the skins are used for leather, while the meat in addition to being a palatable food for human consumption, may be used for stock feed and fertilizer.

Several additional products are obtained from the glands, and in various parts of the world the teeth are used for money. In the far interior of Asia, said Capt. Ellerich, a well polished shark tooth will win a piece at the University of New Hampshire.

Smallest Adult In World

Girl Nineteen Is Only Twenty-One Inches Tall

Margaret Ann Robinson gave a birthday party the other day. At nineteen she stands only twenty-one inches, or one foot, nine, in her slippers, and weighs only eighteen pounds. At the office of George Hamid Enterprises, 1560 Broadway, New York, where pictures were taken, it was declared that she was the smallest adult in the world.

Her mother makes her clothes. She quit growing when five months old, and she never has weighed more than twenty-two pounds.

She was born in Denver, has had baby parts in movies, plays solitaire, has been in the show business two years, plays a violin eleven and one-half inches over all, likes to keep house, dances, and walked a mile yesterday. She likes almost all food except milk and eggs, and recently signed a contract for exhibition at Shrine circuses.

Her father boasted that she is nine and one-half inches shorter than the renowned Tom Thumb, whose smallness helped to make Barnum bigger as a circus magnate, and that to step into the carriage which Queen Victoria gave Tom Thumb she had to climb on a ten-inch box. This carriage is now a museum piece at the University of New Hampshire.

Must Learn Over Again

Operation On Throat Forces Famous Singer To Become Student

Anita O'Day, ballerina, internationally known dancer, must learn to sing all over again.

For 15 years—through the zenith of her brilliant opera career—the diva gave the world sweet music from a throat half blocked by goitre. By sheer will power she forced her beautiful notes on a devious detour through her windpipe.

Now, the tumor—"poloat" she called it—is gone. Her throat has been cleared of its old problem, and filled with a new.

The successful operation that removed the 6 1/4 ounce obstruction doubled the amount of air her trachea can hold. She must now accustomed herself to control the increased volume so she can produce the same clear tones.

The "re-learning" lessons begin in Heriot hospital, where the singer was resting comfortably.

Single notes and simple scales will adjust the disturbed throat muscles before more difficult exercises begin. That will be after all danger of lesions has been passed.

Use Camouflage Methods

Speeding Motorists In London Trapped By Disguised Police

Disguised police in London have been using camouflage methods to trap speeding motorists. To-day one cannot tell, driving along London's streets, whether the grocery truck leading along in front is really a grocery truck. It looks like a grocery truck, and even has lettering on its sides to prove it, but that's no sign the driver isn't one of Scotland Yard's finest, out enjoying the summer weather and enforcing London's new 30-mile speed limit.

The "gongsters" as they are called (because they pound a gong when they've tried an unwary motorist), may be found in almost anything, from a 1918 model truck to the latest thing in sports models. They're disguised, too, with dusters over their uniforms. Considering such tactics as an affront to Britain's sense of fair play, motorists are attaching signs on the back of their cars reading, "This is not a police car."

Canada Will Be Represented

No organization of a similar nature brings together more countries than the World's Poultry Science Association does at the World Poultry Congress which opens on the tenth meeting of the association. Canada takes an important part in the spreading of scientific and practical knowledge and will be represented at the next congress which will be held in Berlin, Germany, in 1936.

Free Thinking

Dr. Ing, late student of St. Paul's, did well to remind his hearers in his university sermon at St. Mary's Oxford, that originality means thinking for oneself and not merely thinking differently from other people. Free thinking is fine so long as there is not sufficient emphasis on the latter word and not too much on the former.

Unusual Bombardment

Turin, Italy, was besieged by a French army in 1840, and was saved from one of the most unusual bombardments in history. In trying to relieve their starving allies, Spanish troops hollowed out cannon balls, filled them with flour, and fired them into the town.

Not Operating Railroad

No Train Running On Line Into Vatican City

Pope Pius now has a railroad, a station, a tunnel, a bridge, a siding, switches, signals and a dispatcher's room, but no train and no apparent prospect of operating the line for many a month or year.

Built at a total cost of $2,385,000 and paid for by the Italian Government under the provisions of the Lateran treaty of 1929, the railroad was completed a year ago. Since then the 2,615-foot road has remained idle.

There is a gorgeous station that would do honor to a modern city of 50,000 souls, but it is empty. There are tracks that have not felt the hum of wheels since a locomotive made a trial trip into Vatican city last year. The tunnel, dug into Vaticano hill and built to facilitate switching without taking up too much valuable space, has its gaping mouth wide open, but never swallows any thing.

The railroad, in proportion to its length, is the most costly in the world. Including the station, tunnel and bridge, the cost is $913 a foot. A railroad linking New York to San Francisco at the same price would run to about $16,000,000,000, not including the rolling stock.

Yet the Pope is not giving any indication of ever using it. He has not yet placed the order for the construction of the papal train. Many plans and designs for such a train, including a special chapel coach, have been drawn, but nothing has been done toward putting them into execution.

The Italian Government naturally would be glad to lend the Pope a train for special trips if he wished. The King, undoubtedly, would offer the royal train.

Has Unusual Powers

Doors Open For Girl Of Their Own Accord

"I'll open the door for you, Marie," said the mistress of a villa at Nusle, Prague, to her servant, who was carrying the rolling stock tray.

But just as the servant got to the door it opened of its own accord.

The girl's employer thought she must be dreaming. Other members of the family, however, noticed that doors always opened for Marie when she approached them.

It was discovered that she always sent Marie into the cellar for potatoes, because they rolled toward her own accord.

The girl herself has no feeling of any unusual powers. A psychical research society is now investigating the phenomena.

England's Letter Post System

Was Started 300 Years Ago By Charles First

There was a letter post system in England 300 years ago and the proof of it is a document now being specially exhibited at the British Museum.

It is a proclamation issued by Charles I to one Thomas Witherings, authorizing him to "settle a running post" between London and the principal towns in the most important countries.

This document states Witherings is to provide messengers to ride between London and the towns set forth, who "must return within five days." They are to collect letters left at post-houses along the various routes and to "take them as near as possible they can" to their destination.

It was to cost twopence to send a letter under 80 miles, fourpence between 80 and 140 miles, and fivepence over 140 miles, while the charge to Scotland was eightpence.

Swimmer Defies The Law

Aaron Greenup of New York City considers himself a good swimmer and a good lawyer. Arrested for violating an ordinance by bathing beyond the safety lines at Rockaway Beach he undertook his own defense. "The Atlantic Ocean," he told the judge, "doesn't belong to any one, and I'll continue swimming at my convenience as far out as I like." Magistrate Holstra ordered lifeguards to keep a sharp eye on Mr. Greenup until his case could be disposed of—New York Times.

This year the Wm. Wrigley Jr. Co. of Canada Ltd. celebrates its Silver Jubilee—twenty-five years of steady progress and achievement. It was just twenty-five years ago that Allan Ross, President of Wrigley's Canada, Ltd., Vice-president of the Canadian Company in the United States, came to Toronto to found a business that has grown to one of the largest in the country. Allan Ross was then only 22, but he had the ability to work hard, a bold imagination, the courage to grasp opportunity when it was perceived. To-day Mr. Ross is still a young man at the head of a business that stretches from coast to coast, a company whose name is known in every corner, whose advertising has contacted every individual in the Dominion. The history of Wrigley's achievements in Canada is well known; it includes the purchase of the Marathon Swins at the Canadian National Exhibition, the invention of "radio amateur night," the offer to buy western wheat with all gum-dollars received, the establishment of employment hostels, and hundreds of other contributions to the people.

Mr. Ross says: "Without capable men, a company can't succeed. He has followed that principle and has surrounded himself with unusually capable men. Highly efficient teamwork, possible only with the highest type helpers, has enabled Mr. Ross to build up Wrigley's Canadian business with yearly output that would scarcely fill a room 10 x 10 x 10 feet, to a daily production of tons upon tons. Wrigley's gum is sold to the public through 5000 retailers, thus out of every five retailers in the Dominion."

"There is only one way," says Mr. Ross, "and that is to work hard, to make it slowly. So far as I know there is only one way to develop oneself into valuable executive material. It is: start to learn by actual experience—then it will take years to get the fundamentals of whatever game you tackle."

Invention Detects Gases

A Gold Snooper As Latest Aid For Miners

A gold snooper—it "smells" it's way—was put forward recently as the last word for wealth seekers in the southwestern treasure belt of Weatherford, Okla.

The new "what's-it" is from the hand of hopeful Lucille Tupper, a Custer country farmer, whose interest in hidden riches has turned him scientist. His new invention is designed to guide its master by "smelling" the faintest gases given off by precious metals.

Such odors, mechanically harnessed, would be transformed into buzzes heard through ear phones worn by the user.

Soon Tupper expects to seek out the Ghost Mound and the Devil's Canyon treasures, reputedly buried by the Spanish conquistadores.

Speaks To Students

Rudyard Kipling Talks To Canadian Graduates On Visit To England

Rudyard Kipling, ahead of Britain's celebrities, broke a vow without specimaking to tell a group of Canadian boys and girls that "England is as much a possession of Canada as Canada is a possession of England."

Kipling had consented to face the audience of 84 graduates of Canadian secondary schools at St. Winifred's school, Eastbourne, on condition he not make a speech. The Canadian boys and girls, visiting England for six weeks under the auspices of the Overseas Educational League, quite won his heart, however, and he did make a brief address.

New Announcement Card

German Doctor Notified Friends He Was In Prison

Announcement cards were issued recently informing the friends of Dr. Herbert Mueller-Guttenbrunn that he had been sentenced to prison for three and a half months and that during that period he would not be circulating among his favorite coffee houses. The doctor took the view that announcement cards were used for weddings, births, and such, so why not jails. They sent him to friends in Austria and abroad. He was convicted of "attempting publicly to degrade the Austrian regime."

Uses Canadian Wheat

The Scottish Co-operative Wholesale Society is the largest flour miller in Scotland and has used in one year 29,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat. Its bakeries produce bread in which No. 1 Northern wheat is used to the extent of 98 per cent.

According to Mr. McCormick, accountant of the Society, most of the buying is done at Wimbley through the pool and line companies.

Largest Diesel Motor

The world's largest Diesel motor has just been completed by the British Locomotive Co. and will be installed on the Italian transatlantic steamship Vulcan. The motor is calculated to develop 16,000 horsepower, and in trials already has exceeded 16,000 horsepower.

Has Uncanny Powers

Man Who Produces Bees From Air Puzzles Scientists

That he can produce bees, birds, flowers, snakes and liquids from the air is the claim of Lajos Pap, a Hungarian carpenter, whose uncanny powers have puzzled doctors and scientists throughout Europe. He recently underwent a series of experiments at the International Institute for Physical Research, South Kensington, England. "When in a trance I can produce living and inanimate things," he said. "Many of the animals I have produced from the air are living in various museums in Budapest." Dr. Nandor Bodor, foreign research officer of the Institute, said he had seen Lajos Pap produce 32 live beetles from the air at a meeting in Budapest. "He has to be in a complete trance to do it. He produces the beetles by matching at the air. Every precaution was taken to see that there was not the slightest possibility of the exhibit being a fake."

Seek Radium Substitute

Scientists Hope For Discovery Through Treating Common Salt

Two scientists carried two bags of common table salt to the top of Mount Evans in the hope of making a discovery which may result in the replacement of costly radium in many medical treatments.

The scientists, Dr. J. C. Stearns, Denver scientist, and Dr. J. K. Froncik, of McGill University, hope to introduce radium into the salt as predicted before they left that if the experiment succeeds, salt treated in this fashion may take the place of radium in medicine.

PATTERN 5011

As cute as an assortment of cuddly toys as ever gladdened a child's heart! They're ridiculously easy to make, too, for each animal requires but two identical pieces of material, which you sew together and stuff with cotton. Of course, the chicken's wing, and bear's jacket are extra, made with just a strip of contrasting material.

That's the secret of the time-saving, too. The bear, for instance, is a gift to the baby of the house. Gay calico, or other prints, cotton broadcloth, velvet or satine, are possibilities. Then watch the young admirers gather around.

In pattern 5011 you will find a pattern of the four toys shown; detailed instructions and yardage requirements for making them.

To obtain this pattern send 20 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to Household Arts Dept., Winnipeg Newsprint Co., 175 McDermot Ave., Winnipeg.

There is no Alice Brooks pattern book published.

Explanations and Comments

A Consecrated Man of Means, Acts 4:36, 37. One of the members of the early Christian Church of Jerusalem was a man named Barnabas, whose family had been natives of the island of Cyprus. In those days Cyprus had given to the world not without grudging, as Aristides wrote to the Emperor Hadrian. Barnabas was a very generous man. When he sold a field he brought the whole sum and gave it to the apostles to spend for the poor.

INCREASE IN PRICE OF WHEAT IS PREDICTION

Montreal.—An increase in wheat prices due to poor grain conditions in the Argentine was predicted here by Hon. R. L. Butler, premier of South Australia, on his arrival in Montreal on the Empress of Britain boat train from Quebec.

On his way back to Australia from London, where he attended meetings of the Empire Parliamentary Association, Premier Butler expressed interest in Canada's wheat crop, stating this country would probably get rid of her grain hold-over as it would undoubtedly be needed in the world.

"I can see," he said, "a general rise in price throughout the world owing to the Argentine situation. Conditions there have been very bad."

Discussing South Australian wheat, the prime minister said his country is now selling one-third of her crop to Japan and the market there was expected to increase sharply.

Premier Butler mildly criticized the Ottawa empire agreements. "They are written agreements," he declared, "and pacts put down in black and white should work out satisfactorily in these days of veritable economic conditions."

He said he preferred "gentlemen's agreements" adding England had no written constitution and "she can change things as conditions warrant."

Italy's Demand

Settlement Of Dispute Is Occupation Of Ethiopia By Italian Army

Paris—Baron Pompeo Alolio, head of the Italian delegation to the tri-power conference, informed the British representative, Anthony Eden, that Italy's minimum demand for peaceful settlement of her dispute with Ethiopia was occupation of Ethiopia by the Italian army.

Alolio said Premier Mussolini would require this condition in order to provide for the enforcement of economic privileges.

Italy, he said, would not be able to accept the British plan for economic concessions in Ethiopia unless Italy could make Ethiopia respect them. This, he said, would mean Italy must keep armed forces in the east African country.

Alolio was induced to call on Eden, it was learned, by Premier Laval after the Italian had refused to visit the British diplomat separately on the eve of the scheduled conference between delegates of the French, Italian and British governments.

After the meeting between the two, it was said in informed quarters their positions were as "irreconcilable" as before the meeting.

For People To Decide

Says Government Should Not Pre-cipitate Canada In War

Saskatoon.—No government should precipitate Canada into a foreign war "unless it was clear that the people of the Dominion accepted the situation and approved the action of Hon. H. H. Stevens." Beacon, party leader, said here.

At his meeting Mr. Stevens was asked his view of Canada's participation in a foreign war. "It is an unthinkable thing that Canada should be drawn into another war," he replied. He added that it was hoped British statesmen who had been so successful in the past would succeed in averting any such catastrophe.

Heavy Damage From Fire
Victoria, B.C.—Fire in a sawdust pile had done $20,000 damage and was thought under control. Five dwellings have been destroyed. Flames broke out in the sawdust pile which has been smouldering for more than a year on the former site of the Shawinigan Lake Lumber Co., 25 miles north of here. The mill was destroyed a year ago by fire.

Fewer On Relief
Winnipeg.—Nearly 500 fewer families were on relief here Aug. 3 than on the same date last year, reports showed. The number of families listed on that date was 5,980, compared with 6,400 last year.

Water Development

Farmers Of Drought Areas Show Great Interest In Plan

Ottawa.—Farmers and ranchers throughout the drought area of the prairie provinces are showing keen interest in the water development committee which has been organized as part of the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Act," according to Hon. Robert Weir, minister of agriculture, here. The minister has returned from a trip to Western Canada.

The problem of supplying a more adequate and dependable water supply to farmers is a vital one on many farms and ranches," said Mr. Weir. "The demand for the assistance is evident by the fact that since the general program was first announced only a few months ago over 4,600 individuals have made application, either directly or through their municipalities or organizations. Applications are at present pouring into the office of the water development committee at Swift Current at an average rate of over 47 a day."

"Of the total applications received to date, nearly 350 are from Manitoba, over 2,800 from Saskatchewan, and somewhere around 1,400 from Alberta.

"Field work was started little more than three weeks ago with four field engineers and their helpers. Since then the field staff has been enlarged to 21 engineers, including field engineers and their assistants."

Islands Under Martial Law

Blockade In Force On Italian Possessions In Aegean Sea

London.—A Reuters' News Agency dispatch from Athens says the Italian-owned Dodecanese islands in the Aegean sea have been placed under martial law with a severe blockade in force. The island of Leros has been converted into a fortress.

Visitors are not allowed to disembark at Leros, but are forced to go to Rhodes where all are subjected to a close scrutiny. Private houses in the islands have been requisitioned to care for the sick and wounded. All motor vessels also have been requisitioned.

The 13 islands of the Dodecanese are in the Aegean sea off the coast of Asia Minor. The islands are Rhodes, Cos, Kalymnos, Leros, Nisyros, Telos, Syme, Khalake, Aspronisi, Karpathos, Kasos, Patmos and Lipsos.

Formerly the possession of Turkey, the islands were occupied by Italy during its war with Turkey in 1919. It evacuated them by terms of the secret treaty of London of 1912, which secured Italy's entrance into the World War gave Italy sovereignty over the islands.

Sovereignty was repeatedly disputed until, in 1920, the treaty of Sevres gave Italy full control.

Winter Feed Policy

Federal Government Will Continue It For Another Winter

Ottawa.—To encourage winter feeding of young cattle and lambs, the Dominion will continue for another winter season its feeder policy, which was started last year, it was announced by Minister of Agriculture Robert Weir.

To be effective until Dec. 31, the Dominion will provide one-way transportation and travelling expenses to any Canadian farmer purchasing one or more carloads of young feeder cattle or lambs according to conditions laid down by the agricultural department.

Bank Buys Federal Notes

Ottawa.—On behalf of the minister of finance, it was announced from the Bank of Canada that tenders had been accepted for the full amount of $20,000,000 Dominion of Canada treasury bills due Nov. 15. The average discount price of the accepted bids was $99.6269, and the average yield was 1.22 per cent.

To Inspect Jails

Victoria.—Gordon Sloan, British Columbia attorney-general, is leaving on an inspection tour of jails in the interests of the province, where the lock-ups are reported over crowded due to excess of transients being arrested by Royal Canadian Mounted Police for alleged rod-riding on prairie harvest fields.

Will Develop Resources

Durban, South Africa.—General Jan Smuts declared that big developments in the exploitation of South Africa's mineral resources may be expected in the near future and the government, in which he is Premier Herzog's chief lieutenant, is at present considering how best this can be effected.

West Uses Siamese Rice

Sales In Western Canada Increased As Result Of World's Grain Short

Montreal.—In Montreal on a business trip which will take him to England and Europe and possibly to Siam, Capt. A. J. M. Watson-Armstrong, consul-general for Siam in Canada, with headquarters in Vancouver, said trade between Canada and Siam is showing an encouraging increase.

More Siamese rice is used in western Canada than from all other countries combined, he said. This trade has been largely created within the past two years and is mainly the result of Siam's success at the World Grain Conference and Show held in Regina in 1933. At the exhibition Siamese rice swept the boards against entries of all other countries, taking three first prizes and 11 of a total of 20 prizes in the rice classes.

PERSONNEL OF WHEAT BOARD IS ANNOUNCED

Ottawa.—Premier R. B. Bennett has announced the personnel of the new wheat board. The three members to be John L. McFarland, chairman; D. L. Smith, vice-chairman, and D. O. Grant.

Personnel of the advisory committee which will act with the Canadian wheat board, was announced as follows:

Robert McKeen, Vancouver, representing the grain shippers; Sydney T. Smith, Winnipeg, representing the grain trade; Charles G. C. Short, Montreal, secretary of the Millers' Association and representing the milling interests; Paul Bredt, Winnipeg; Lew Hutchinson, Duhamel, Alberta; Louis C. Brouillet, Winnipeg, and Brooks Catton, Hanley, Sask., all farmers and representing the producers.

Mr. McFarland, 62 years old, was born in Halton county, Ont., and has been identified with the grain trade in Western Canada ever since coming to the west in 1897. He started as a bookkeeper for a grain company in Edmonton.

Mr. McFarland later became directing head of the Alberta Pacific Grain Company. A supporter of the New Deal, he offered to sell his company to the Alberta wheat pool when it was organized in 1923, but his price was not met.

After a few years in retirement, Mr. McFarland accepted the post of general manager of the central selling agencies of the wheat pools in 1930, but rejected all remuneration except expenses. First international wheat marketing difficulties were developing at that time.

When the Dominion government started its price stabilization efforts, Mr. McFarland took charge and operated through the pools' selling agency. He controlled up to 225,000 bushels of wheat. He remained in this post until his selection for Dominion wheat board.

A Full Session

Toronto.—As soon as possible after Dominion election day, October 14, a special session of the Ontario legislature will be held Premier Mitchell H. Hepburn announced.

SEEKS NEW LAURELS

Soviet Trying To Give It Fixed Purchasing Value

Moscow.—The Soviet government has set its shoulders to the task of giving its freak rouble a fixed purchasing value. To accomplish this it must make alterations that pierce to the roots of its economic structure, a process which cannot be completed in weeks, or even months.

First of all there must be a workable balance between wages and prices on the general market, at present far out of proportion. The government is attacking the problem on one hand and lowering prices on the other.

Engineering factory workers has a salary of 150 rubles a month. The proportion, if he were obliged to buy in the open market, would be the same as if a man making $150 a month in North America had to pay $12 a pound for butter and $3 a loaf for bread.

Would Stabilize Rouble

Ottawa.—The Canadian Radio

Broadcasting Commission's famous regulation 90 appeared in new form, redrafted to the satisfaction of Liberals and Conservatives and bearing the endorsement of the government. It has been a contentious issue between the two parties for a year or more.

As drafted originally by the commission, the regulation aroused a storm of protest by Liberal members. Its purpose was to prevent abusive, defamatory statements being broadcast, but it was worded so it was possible to interpret it as preventing anyone criticizing existing legislation.

The protests reached a peak in the house last June when Hon. Ernest Lapointe, former minister of justice, proposed redrafting of the regulation.

Former Minister of Marine Alfred Duranleau promised to redraft the regulation and in a few days submitted it to the house in its new form. It was approved as is now sanctioned by the government.

The new regulation reads:

"No broadcasting station may broadcast any speech, printed matter or program containing defamatory, libellous or obscene statements with regard to persons or institutions, or statements of a treasonable character or intended to promote change by unlawful means and which might lead to a breach of the peace, or any advertising matter containing false or deceptive statements."

May Restrict Credits

Italy's Debt To British Exporters Reaches Large Sum

London.—British exporters hinted at a move to refuse further credits to Italy because of delayed payments believed caused by the expense of military preparations.

It was reported in financial circles that Italy's debt to British exporters is now $2,000,000 sterling (about $10,000,000) and the creditors may seek dissolution of the 17th parliament since confederation. He announced a general election would be held October 14. Writs will be returned on Saturday, November 9.

The Earl of Bessborough, governor-general of Canada, made a special trip to the capital from Quebec where he is in summer residence, signed the dissolution order and numerous other orders-in-council, and left again for Quebec.

Chosen to fill gaps in the cabinet ranks created by appointments and retirements, the new ministers are: Hon. G. Geary, Toronto, became minister of justice, succeeding Hon. Hugh G. Keay who was appointed chairman of the board of railway commissioners.

"The dominions are independent nations and can speak for themselves," says the editorial, "but what Britain going to do about the empty spaces in her colonial empire? If we are going to put a fence around them to keep them for our own exploitation, we shall be faced sooner or later with war—a war in which we shall not have the right on our side."

B.C. Tourist Trade

Number Of Visitors To Coast Province Greater Than Last Year

Victoria.—An increased influx of tourist automobiles from other Canadian provinces to British Columbia brought 2,633 non-resident cars to the end of July this year, an increase of 150 over the total for the 12 months of 1934. The largest influx was from Alberta, with 1,942 cars, while from Saskatchewan there were 469, Manitoba 125, New Brunswick three, Nova Scotia four, Ontario 80, and Quebec 14.

It was necessary for the government to pass an order-in-council receding that passed some months ago fixing October 14 as Thanksgiving day and changing the national holiday to October 24. Originally it had been planned to hold the elections on September 30. Mr. Bennett said, but in order to complete the necessary preliminaries, it was then decided to delay polling until October 7.

Immediately the latter date was publicly discussed it was brought to the attention of the government that the new selection was the day of atonement, a religious holiday for those of the Jewish faith. To have polling on that date would have had the effect. Mr. Bennett said, of franchising a large number of electors.

Since the statute requires that general elections must be held on Monday, it was then necessary to select October 14. With respect to earlier dates which had been considered Mr. Bennett said it had been represented to the government that between September 15 and 20 large numbers of electors would be busily engaged in harvest operations.

Further ministrations awaiting completion involve the portfolios of marine, post office and finance. It was understood that J. C. H. Dusault, prominent Montreal attorney, would become minister of marine.

Hon. Maurice Dupre, solicitor-general, is expected to become postmaster-general, and his successor will probably be a Montreal lawyer whose name has not been divulged. The portfolio of finance may not be filled before the election. Hon. E. N. Rhodes, who has been minister of finance since 1932 and who was recently appointed to the senate, will remain in office for some time to complete important refunding operations he has in hand, Mr. Bennett said.

FAMOUS RADIO REGULATION 90 NOW AMENDED

Ottawa.—The Canadian Radio

Broadcasting Commission's famous regulation 90 appeared in new form, redrafted to the satisfaction of Liberals and Conservatives and bearing the endorsement of the government.

It has been a contentious issue between the two parties for a year or more.

Bay Post Activity

Arrival Of Steamship Wentworth At Churchill Open Season

Churchill, Man.—Floodlights illuminated this northern port as unloading of the steamship Wentworth went on space.

It is expected the ship, which opened the northern navigation season, will have completed unloading and loading by the middle of the week and be ready to sail for Europe.

Up and down the quay in the shadow of the giant terminal elevators, teams, trucks and donkey engines worked the Wentworth's 2,200-ton cargo.

A banquet was given by the Churchill Board of Trade in honor of Captain Graves.

Advance For French Farmers

Will Permit Holding Of Grain For Better Prices

Paris.—A measure to ease the financial situation of French wheat farmers and permit them to hold their stocks for advantageous prices has been announced by the ministry of agriculture.

It was stated the Bank of France henceforth will extend credits to the agricultural credit institutions, which will provide advances to farmers of 50 francs per quintal (about 3.7 bushels) at the time of harvest. The government believes the wheat producers will thus not be forced to make immediate sales of their entire stocks.

Ship Racing Car

Sir Malcolm Campbell's Bluebird Sent To America

Southampton, Eng.—Sir Malcolm Campbell's mighty Bluebird racing car with which he will make new assaults on the land speed record next month, was shipped to the United States aboard the Aquitania. One of Sir Malcolm's mechanics went along with the huge machine.

Sir Malcolm himself and his other mechanics will leave for New York this week.

Alberta Had Snow Storm

Edmonton.—One Edmonton home was struck by lightning, half-battled crops in the Millet district, snow fell at Poucette and Hudson Hope in the north and rain descended in torrents throughout central and northern Alberta districts as thunderstorms roared over a wide area one day last week.

Leave Not Granted

Calgary—Harvest leave will not be granted the married unemployed men on city relief lists. They must stay in the city and work off arrears of work. If they stay in the city and work out their quota, the men receive $3.60 a day. Harvesters are averaging about $1.50 a day.

New Rust Resistant Wheat

Seed May Be Available To Farmers By Spring Of 1937

The return to the Prairie Provinces this year in epidemic proportions of that dread scourge of the wheat grower, namely wheat stem rust, is focusing attention on the work which has been in progress during recent years in connection with the production of varieties of wheat which are capable of resisting this disease.

A question, which the farmers in the most seriously affected areas are asking with evident interest and concern is: When will seed of this new wheat be available? The answer is that while several varieties of rust resistant wheat are being tested in different points in Western Canada, what are so far believed to be the best two or three varieties are being increased as rapidly as possible and according to L. H. Newman, Dominion Cerealist for the Dominion Experimental Farms, it is reasonable to expect that by the spring of 1937, there may be available several thousand bushels of seed, in lots of two to four bushels to each farmer.

Exacting tests for milling and baking have been made of the best varieties of rust resistant wheat that have been developed as a result of about 20 years of research work started by the Dominion Department of Agriculture in 1916 at the Dominion Experimental Farms at Brandon, Manitoba, and Indian Head, Saskatchewan, and subsequently carried on at the Dominion Rust Research Laboratory at Winnipeg and at other points under the auspices of the Associate Committee on Field Crop Diseases, the members of which are representatives of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, the National Research Council, the Faculty of Agriculture of the western universities and the provincial departments of agriculture. The results of the tests so far made have amply fulfilled the expectations of the plant breeders.

Approves Of Royalty

Socialist Sweden Has No Desire To Make Any Change

One of the hard-working royal families in the world retreated to summer palaces, warred by a strenuous season of festivities and ceremonies, but not without a certain amount of mental satisfaction.

For members of the Swedish royal family from top to bottom have had convincing proof that Socialism doesn't have an apparent desire as yet to do away with kings and queens.

At the wedding of Princess Ingrid to Crown Prince Frederik of Denmark, the largest street crowds ever to assemble in Stockholm roared their approval of a royal family.

Husky Socialist workmen stood on stepladders, climbed trees and struggled for a chance to look at royalty, along with dyed-in-the-wool Royalists. Sweden, with a Socialist ticket in one hand, used the other to wave a handkerchief at a princess who married a prince.

Ostrich Is Clever

Can Camouflage Itself In Order To Avoid Capture

The ostrich does not bury its head in the sand when pursued; it has the much cleverer plan of camouflaging itself. The natural home of the ostrich is the boulder-strewn veld. When in danger of capture, the bird sinks down and huddles itself up. With its smoke-grey feathers—their natural color before they are treated for export—the ostrich so closely resembles the many surrounding boulders that careful search is necessary to pick it out.

Famous Toppemaker Dead

World-famed topmaker, James Gordon Gray, died recently in Glasgow, Scotland, where he was professor of applied physics at Glasgow University. His top was the gyroscope, the little instrument in which his father, Professor Andrew Gray, specialized. So valuable were his inventions that the United States Government offered him an appointment at Washington, but he preferred to continue his work at Glasgow.

Making Cotton From Straw

Turning straw into cotton may make Japan independent of imports if Dr. Soai Tanaka's announced development of a special process meets industrial requirements. In his report to the Japan Chemical Society, Tanaka said he had hit upon the idea during intensive research in dyestuffs and cellulose, the latter the chief constituent of common straw.

The dog is mentioned in the Bible 28 times—the cat not even once.

The impressive photograph was taken off Spithead as the ships of His Majesty's Royal Navy put on a brilliant display just before the close of a memorable day of naval pageantry. These great "palm tree" showers are rockets released from every ship in the Home and Mediterranean fleets.

Most Important Product

Japanese People Prefer Rice Grown In Own Country

In view of the prolonged negotiations between Canada and Japan, the following extract on the Japanese economic conditions of agriculture from the 1933-34 report of the International Institute of Agriculture may be of interest. It is needless to repeat here, says the report, that the whole of Japanese agriculture rests in quite a particular way on two products only: rice and silk. Although there has been evidence in Japan in recent years of a certain tendency to emerge from the "rice-growing economy" characteristic of the economic structure theretofore, it is unquestionable that rice remains, nevertheless, the most important product of the whole economic life of Japan.

It must be added, in order to see the problem more clearly, that when we speak of rice, we mean Japanese rice, that is to say, rice produced in Japan properly so-called. The Japanese people find that foreign rice has not the taste of the home-grown article, and this explains why the production at lower cost of Indo-Chinese or Siamese rice can in no way supplant home-grown rice nor compete with it. Only in famine years, when the price of rice is too high, are the poorer classes of the population constrained to replace home-grown rice by imported rice which, because of its lower price, is within their power to purchase. In recent years the Japanese colonists have succeeded in improving the quality of the rice produced in Korea and Formosa and the pressure of colonial rice production has already begun to be felt on the domestic market.

On account of the preference of the Japanese people for home-grown rice, the importation of rice from abroad is practised only in so far as it is necessary to make up for the deficiency of the home production and it has no influence on the rice market. In the family budget, the purchase of rice represents the largest item, being often as much as 22 per cent. of the total expenditure among the poorer classes of the population. Thus, there is no room for waste.

People Using Bicycles

Hundreds Of Licenses Issued Daily In Capetown, South Africa

More than 300 bicycles are being licensed a day in Capetown, South Africa. On two days recently more than 900 were listed. It is estimated that nearly 6,000 are still unlicensed. The Wynberg and Claremont districts are the busiest cycling areas of the Peninsula, and the Traffic Control depots there for the inspection and licensing of bicycles are almost swamped.

Highest Death Rate

The highest death rate in the world is in China, according to a survey completed by the National Health Administration at Nanking. Six million persons die annually in China, their average age being 10. The population of the country is estimated to be 450,000,000.

More than 1,400,000 persons paid two cents each last year to enter railway station platforms in London without buying train tickets.

Armaments are estimated to have cost the nations of the world $12,500,000,000 last year, or three times as much as in 1913.

The Most Popular Toys

Those With Which Children Can Do Some Work

A survey of children, which has just been concluded in America, to find out what things are most popular as toys has led the investigators to believe that the dictionary definition of a toy as "that which serves to amuse" is insufficient. Apparently the toys that children really like are those with which they can do some work, even if it is only painting a picture, building a meccano model or reading a book.

Unless a doll can be dressed or otherwise manipulated, it is of no particular interest to a girl, and a boy will abandon an expensive model yacht which cannot be sailed for a piece of wood which can. Similarly most parents discover sooner or later that expensive mechanical toys are fun and happiness out of their "make-believe" and their few toys than do the children of wealthy parents with unlimited sources of amusement on which to draw.

World's Hardest Job

Attendants Must Feed Birds A Diet Every Fifteen Minutes

The hardest job in the world? Attendants in the bird house at the New York Bronx zoo vowed recently feeding humming-birds every 15 minutes is one of the most exhausting tasks. Three birds recently received from Venezuela are being cared for. A fourth died. The three collected weigh three ounces. Because of the constant flapping of their wings the birds cannot hold much food and use up their energy quickly. Every quarter hour the attendants have to see they get their diet of sugar water.

Russia's Youthful Drivers

Juvenile motorists of Russia, children between the ages of 12 and 14, are to be taught to drive motor cars, with the aid of miniature cars, with engines of one and a half horsepower, and with a maximum speed of 25 miles per hour.

Hotter Than The Sun

Temperature Of Welding Arcs Seven Thousand Degrees Higher

Discovery that man has surpassed the heat of the sun has been made with a new camera at Schenectady, N.Y. Your favorite star on the screen is seen by virtue of the light from the temperature of a flaming carbon arc which is 400 degrees hotter than the surface of the sun. In some new welding arcs the heat flashes momentarily several thousand degrees above the sun's heat.

The common carbon arc, used in most movie theatres for searchlights and for illuminating the entrances at first nights, has a temperature of 9,400 degrees.

The tungsten arc burns at 11,300 degrees Fahrenheit. In certain welding arcs the hot core stands at 10,300 degrees. The noisy sputter of some of these arcs is made by heat flashes, which may jump to more than 13,000 degrees Fahrenheit.

The camera reads the temperature by photographing a soundwave in the flaming gas of the arc. The sound is made by a loud spark at one end of the arc, and travels the length of the arc, visible as an extra glow, a real wave of light. The hotter the arc, the faster the speed of the sound it carries.

The camera "stops" this wave, and photographs its spread by aid of a little revolving mirror which makes accurate exposures lasting only one two-millionth of a second.

Dr. Chancy Guy Suits of the research laboratory devised the new method of measuring intense temperatures.

Plenty Of Questions

Traveler Found Ordering Breakfast Was No Small Task

A traveler who likes the English, and swears he wouldn't tell an untruth about them, is just back from the Motherland with a little tale of woe.

He was a week-end guest, he said, at a big estate in Surrey which was complete with parks, stables, and prize cattle. His first morning there the maid who brought him his can of hot water queried him about his breakfast.

This was because that dried beef was an ideal food on the long voyages when they were cruising idly about, in wait for the Spaniard treasure ships. Dried beef contained energy in a concentrated form, and much energy was needed on the days when decks were red with battle.

Modern explorers have found that the old idea dogs were right; emergency rations for many exploring parties have been composed of dried beef and chocolate.

Flower Beds In Arctic

Spot On Herschel Island Described As Paradise

An Arctic "paradise" was described as a place where Eskimos grow forget-me-nots and bask in the sun while the butter keeps cool in underground refrigerators.

Major E. B. Collins of Fairbanks, Alaska, told of the spot—the Herschel Island in Mackenzie Bay, N.W.T., Canada. Just back from an airplane trip there, he said:

"It's really too hot for the Eskimos. The island is a veritable flower bed. There are daisies, buttercups, forget-me-nots and many others."

"A skeletoon was silenced by evidence the major brought some of the forget-me-nots back."

"The week I was there," Collins said, "the sky was clear and the sun beat down. The temperature rose to 50 degrees. The salt air was warm and invigorating."

Savings Bank Deposits

Totalled 22,291,549 In Post Office End Of May

Many Canadians deposit their savings in the post office savings bank, judging by figures given in the current Canada Gazette.

As at the end of May, 1935, the deposits totalled $22,291,549, according to the account.

Deposits received during May totalled $187,035, while the amount of withdrawals was $314,652.

The amount of interest paid depositors during May was $1,322.

France Honors Waiter

Saved Life Of Jugoslavian Crown Prince During War

France has reached across the Atlantic to bestow the rank of chevalier of the Legion of Honor on Albert Feugas, 47-year-old waiter in a French charter restaurant, New Orleans, for his services during the World War. Crown Prince Alexander, who later became King of Jugoslavia and was shot down by an assassin in October, 1934, was visiting in the front line trench when Feugas saved his life in 1916.

Newest Window Shopping

An ingenious device is placed outside a shop in Shaftesbury avenue, London, by means of which women shoppers can, in effect, try on dresses in the street. It consists of a cabinet containing a frock and by means of an optical illusion the onlooker sees herself apparently wearing the frock.

Unused table butter was stamped with her sign ring by Queen Charlotte, wife of George VII., to make sure of its appearance at the next meal.

Canadian cheese is well established in the Scottish market and regularly commands a substantial premium over that of other countries.

Men have much less trouble with their wisdom teeth than women do, says one anthropologist.

Hazards On The Farm

Latest To Be Added Is Shock From Electricity

In this age of electricity, the latest hazard added to life on the farm is electrical shock. The passage of electrical current of considerable voltage through a man can paralyze the higher nerve centres, entailing the stoppage of breathing. The failure of the normal tests for life should not be taken as evidence of death. Persons have been resuscitated after hours of effort although ordinary signs of life were absent. In cases where the contact was of short duration and where artificial respiration has been applied without delay there is a better chance of recovery. Although in reality resuscitation from electrical shock is a case for the medical man, or a pinch for those men of the power and telephone companies well-trained in the art of artificial respiration, there are certain things that everybody can do. In shock accidents the victim is usually thrown clear of the live wire or apparatus, but if such is not the case the obvious thing to do is to clear him at once from contact, the greatest care being taken that the helper himself is insulated from contact. Notwithstanding the fact that success in resuscitation decreases in hot summer months, warmth is of great assistance. The patient should be wrapped in warm blankets and hot water bottles applied. A person partially shocked should be made to lie down, and it is a point to be remembered that, owing to lack of tone of the blood vessels, it may be fatal to allow a resuscitated patient to stand.

Artificial respiration, of course, is of the greatest importance and should be taught in all districts. Efforts in artificial respiration should be kept up for at least four hours until the patient breathes or until the signs of the onrush of rigor mortis are definite.

Had Right Idea

Something Was Mott's Of Unemployed Nova Scotia Boy

One way of preventing unemployment from breaking down the morale and good health of ambitious young Canadians is offered by Hubert Smith, 20, jobless farmhand of Amherst, N.S.

His solution is—do something. That is what he did. Gathering together a few belongings, some blankets, a tent and his bicycle, he started out on May 13 for a tour of Canada.

He reached Vancouver recently, ruddy-faced, happy and in the best of health after cycling 3,750 miles on Canadian highways with an 80-pound load.

"I feel fine," he stated with a wide grin. "I had no serious trouble on the road and slept out every night. I'm taking the boat to Vancouver Island and plan to travel over there for a few days."

He encountered fine weather until reaching Winnipeg, where rain set in. During the trip, which cost approximately $50, he purchased his meals wherever convenient and camped when night set in. The expense he expected to offset by working during harvesting time on the return journey, which he started on July 31.

The young man made no attempt to set a specific record, but went on his tour to visit the large cities. His route followed was entirely in Canada with the exception of a trip to Duluth. When he arrives in Amherst again he will have covered 8,000 miles.

Monument To Dog

A monument to the unknown dog was unveiled at the Institute of experimental medicine in Leningrad, U.S.S.R. The inscription on the monument, bearing the stone image of a dog, reads: "In memory of all dogs which have given their lives for physiological experiment for the purpose of prolonging human life and improving human health."

The Next Best Thing

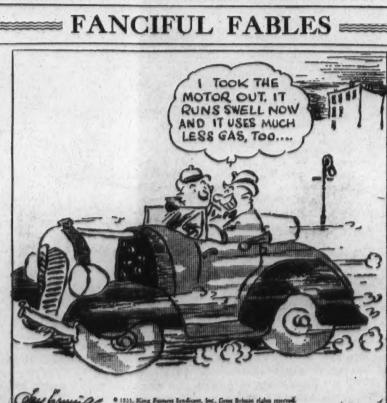

Billy was in disgrace. He had told an untruth, so he had been punished and sent to his room to study "The Life of George Washington." "And try to follow his example," his father had said. Next morning Billy came rushing in crying "Papa, I've started, I've started. I couldn't find any cherry tree, so I've chopped down all your gooseberry bushes."

SYNOPSIS

Nancy Nelson is a sub-dub, a gay, irresponsible girl of nineteen, with no care beyond the choice of her costume for her coming-out party. Suddenly, in the market crash, her indulgent father loses his job, and his family is faced with the necessity of a simpler method of living. At this juncture a letter is received from an eccentric relative, Cousin Adams, who offers to give a home on what seems to be impossible conditions.

After much consideration Cousin Columbine's offer is accepted, and Nancy and Jack arrive at Pine Ridge. They are met at the railway station by Cousin Nelson, who is seen in the company of Mattie Adams, two neighbors of Aunt Columbine, and the party set out for Pine Ridge, which village causes dismay to the girls because of its dilapidated appearance and general lack of poverty. Nancy and Jack are shown to the rooms they are to occupy, and both the young people are struck by the furniture and decorations hateful and contrasting the present quarters with their luxurious home in Boston, wonder if that can end in a year, and a length of time. Aunt Columbine tells why she wrote the letter to them, and relates some of her early experiences at Pine Ridge, Indians and forest fires, of her father's hunt for gold, and of her mother's splendid hair, but frail body, which could not endure the strain of pioneer life.

Nancy set out one afternoon to climb to the top of a hill so as to obtain a view of the surrounding landscape and names the place Aurora. Tubbs had told her to follow. A truck comes along the road, driven by Matthew Adams, and she asks him which way to Aurora. He ascends the hill, looks around, and then goes on to Cousin Columbine's. There Mark Adams tells Nancy that his brother Luke has broken his leg, and that Jack Nelson has been forced to cut out while Luke's leg gets better. With Jack away, Nancy finds that she is lonely, and, having no books to read, she goes to the public library at Pine Ridge, seems a good one, and Nancy writes home to get her parents to send all the books they could spare until they could induce others to let them have.

Now Go On With The Story

The early winter darkness had fallen when they returned. Nancy had had a "wonderful day." She had lunched at a delightful tea room, done her own Christmas errands, Aurora's, Cousin Columbine's, and even Matthew Adams'! For when she met her escort at the appointed time, the young man confessed that he had delayed his own holiday shopping in order to profit by her advice. Would Dot Meredith, the cousin who was in college at Denver and was to spend her vacation at the ranch, have any silk stockings as a gift? "What size did you get? What color? Darned if I know! And would Nancy look at a bunchen set he wanted for his mother, and see if it were really any good?

So Nancy stored her pearls in the old car, and fared forth again, this time with Matthew. But it was all fun, and after weeks of comparative solitude in Pine Ridge, the Christians seemed thrilled.

If you suffer periodic pain and discomfort, try Wilson's Fly Pads. In most cases they bring welcome relief. As Mrs. Raymond Chapman, Route 4, Tilbury, Ont., says: "They ease the pain." Your Tables helped me. Let them help you, too. Ask your druggist.

errands accomplished, Matt took her to a place where they had hot chocolate and delicious sandwiches; and on the way home he drove with exceeding slowness, even after the dangerous pass was left behind.

The stars were out when they bumped the railroad track and started up the straggling familiar street. Dusk hid its shabbiness, and Nancy turned as she always did, for that matchless view of the white-crested Peak.

"Well, we're home," she said, and added, laughing: "That sounds exactly like Aurora, doesn't it? I've had a great time, Matt, and I do appreciate your letting me tag along. If your cousin's stockings don't turn out the right size, the saleswoman said they could be changed. I know your mother will love the linen—any one would; and—Will you look at that?" They were approaching the Nelson "mansion" now. "There's a light in the parlor! Is the president, or governor, or some one calling on Cousin Columbine?" Why? (in the game in the gate), "there are lights everywhere! What can be happening?"

She looked up, at Matthew this time. There was, Nancy saw, an inscrutable smile curving his nice mouth, but all he said was: "Let's go in and see."

CHAPTER XIV.

Nancy was never to forget the moments that followed. As Matthew drew up before the house he blew three sharp blasts on the automobile horn, and said: "Don't bother with all those bunnies, Nancy. I'll lug 'em in at just a minute." Indeed, Nancy was so puzzled by the amazing illumination that she failed to see that they were stopping at the seldom-used front door; and, still dazed, but with Matt's hand on her elbow, she was firmly propelled into what Jack called "the sacred parlor."

For a moment she just stood still, thinking the room was full of people until she realized that it wasn't a crowd at all, only the parlor; beautifully garlanded with Christmas greens, looked different. A second glance disclosed the company: Cousin Columbine in her scarlet middy seemed made for the occasion. She looked very distinguished at the head of the table; and they put me at the foot with "Father Adam" on one side, and Mark (despite protests regarding his apparel!) on the other.

"And did we eat? As Jack remarked, Aurora had 'done her duty' and the old-fashioned Christmas dinner was superb. Once it struck me as funny that Juanta was among the guests while her mother waited on us; but Cousin Columbine says that Aurora would never have recovered if her daughter had been left out. Mr. Adams had piano stools and the minute I saw a beautiful lettering I knew who was going to paint the sign for my Aladdin Library! But to get back to my debut. . . .

The account of this party grew to the longest letter that Nancy Nelson had ever written, which ended with a request to forward it to Aunt Juanta. "I . . . for I can never write all this again. I wonder what those three Spear girls will think of my debut. Mother! Not much like what we planned, was it? But believe me, it was a grand party just the same."

It is probable that all those present agreed with the girl. When at last they arose from the table and sought the gaily-festooned parlor, each one added his bit to the entertainment. There were charades; old-time songs with melodic accompaniment (a melodeon brought from Chicago in 1881, Miss Columbine used them proudly); as well as strictly modern "croonings" rendered by Mark; while Matthew left Nancy breathless for the second time that evening when, with the simple aid of Juanta's tam o' shanter and a plaid scarf, he was transformed into a very creditable Harry Lauder and forgetting his shyness, sang "I Love a Lassie" in a delightful baritone.

Not until then did Aurora remove her apron.

"I'm going to recite 'Curfew Shall Not Ring' To-night," she told the company. "I said that piece at a church sociable when Tubbs was courting me, and there was a dry eye in the place when I got through."

This number brought such a deafening round of applause that the good woman beamed with pleasure.

"It's your turn now, Miss Columbine," she said. "You tell us a story about old times to calm us down."

Cousin Columbine smiled as Matt drew her chair in the centre of the group.

"I'm going to tell you about my first Christmas tree," she began. "I couldn't have been more than three or four years old, and Mother and I were alone as we so often were in those days when Father was off adventuring. We were expecting him home, of course; but on Christmas Eve when he did not come, Mother went out and cut a tiny Christmas tree herself, and set it up in the corner of our one room."

"I realize now that for months, possibly longer, she had been saving every bright scrap of ribbon or calico, or paper that came her way, saving it to make a merry Christmas for her baby; and after I was sound asleep she must have spent those lonely hours trying to make the little fir tree gay and pretty, while she listened tensely for Father's returning step and the longed-for whistle (it was she told me, like the song of the hermit thrushes in New Hampshire), with which he always heralded his arrival.

"Well, no whistle came that night, and at last, bitterly disappointed, fearful for his safety as she always was at any untoward delay, my mother crept into the big bed and dropped asleep. No doubt her pillow was wet with tears; but things looked brighter in the morning. It was a beautiful day. A flurry of snow had fallen in the night. Every bush and tree was white and frosted, which made her think of Christmas in old New England; and I, of course, was twittering with excitement. She could scarcely persuade me to eat breakfast I was so eager to examine every ornament and open the two parcels tied to the topmost branch of my small tree.

"I never saw a prettier table," wrote Nancy to her mother. "Even that awful green-brown china was inconspicuous, because it went with the green-blue leaves of the kinimikim with which Mrs. Adam had decorated everything. It's the most graceful vine, with red berries like the partridge berries we have at home. There was a big brass bowl in the centre of the table, and long spray laid at intervals on the white cloth—a cloth brought in Denver in 1901, please understand, and used only on state occasions!

"The terrible lamp was banished, and four tall brass candlesticks held red candles while a big red candle stood at every place. Even Cousin Columbine's scarlet middy seemed made for the occasion. She looked very distinguished at the head of the table; and they put me at the foot with 'Father Adam' on one side, and Jack (despite protests regarding his apparel!) on the other.
